

Columbine

FIND A POLLINATOR THAT WILL BE ATTRACTED TO THIS FLOWER.

Catherine Hufnagel

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Red flowers that have a tubular shape
- Flower's shape does not provide an area where a pollinator can easily land
- Emits little odour
- Flowers contain sweet nectar and sticky pollen
- Blooms are open during the day

Beetle

FIND A FLOWER THAT WILL ATTRACT THIS POLLINATOR.

Louise Bolle

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Requires an area where it can land on a flower
- Attracted to spicy, sweet or fermented scents
- Eats pollen

Red Trillium

FIND A POLLINATOR THAT WILL BE ATTRACTED TO THIS FLOWER.

Gaston Bernard

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Red flowers
- Flower's shape provides an area where a pollinator can easily land
- Emits an odour that smells like rotting meat
- Blooms in early spring
- Does not produce nectar

Butterfly

FIND A FLOWER THAT WILL ATTRACT THIS POLLINATOR.

Denison Beach

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Attracted to bright colours including purple
- Can "feel" nectar with feet
- Drinks nectar
- Has long proboscis to probe narrow but shallow tubes
- Needs an area where it can land on a flower

Raspberry Flower

FIND A POLLINATOR THAT WILL BE ATTRACTED TO THIS FLOWER.

Sarah Coulber

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- White or purple flowers that are about two to three centimetres wide
- Flowers are broad and flat
- Flowers contain large amounts of nectar and sticky pollen
- Blooms are open day and night

Butterfly

FIND A FLOWER THAT WILL ATTRACT THIS POLLINATOR.

Denise Pech

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Attracted to bright colours including purple
- Can "feel" nectar with feet
- Drinks nectar
- Has long proboscis to probe narrow but shallow tubes
- Needs an area where it can land on a flower

Goldenrod

FIND A POLLINATOR THAT WILL BE ATTRACTED TO THIS FLOWER.

Sarah Coulber

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Flowers are yellow
- Flowers are small, numerous and grow in large, loose, flat-topped clusters
- Flower's shape provides an area where a pollinator can easily land
- Flowers sometimes have a sweet smell
- Produces heavy, sticky pollen

Hummingbird

FIND A FLOWER THAT WILL ATTRACT THIS POLLINATOR.

Tom Clarke

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Attracted to red colours
- Hovers in front of and under flowers
- Eats with a long beak
- Not attracted to odour
- Requires high-sugar nectar
- Active during the day

Milkweed

FIND A POLLINATOR THAT WILL BE ATTRACTED TO THIS FLOWER.

Sarah Coulber

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Pink flowers clustered at the top of a long branch
- Flowers have sweet scent
- Sweet, abundant nectar hidden in narrow tubes
- Lots of landing room on flower clusters

Native Bee

FIND A FLOWER THAT WILL ATTRACT THIS POLLINATOR.

Heinrich Löhmann

www.cwf-fcf.org

© 2008 Canadian Wildlife Federation

- Attracted to bright colours, including white
- Looks for an area on a flower where it can land
- Drinks nectar
- Collects pollen on bristles on its legs and body
- Active during the day